

Discover Medieval Birmingham

This year, 2016, marks 850 years since Birmingham received its market charter. Back then it was a small, insignificant village, today it is an international city of over a million people. On this tour, you can step into the past. We trace the roots of our city, discovering clues to medieval Birmingham in our modern streets. Find out how and why Birmingham began to grow, why it became a centre of industry and trade, what buildings still remain from the medieval period and much more. Packed with fascinating and surprising facts, our combined walking and bus tour takes you on a journey from the medieval markets of Birmingham to the rural villages in the surrounding countryside and through over 8 ½ centuries of history.
